COVID-19 and the Shift to Online Teacher Education

This presentation discusses the experiences of a diverse set of international providers of English language teacher education (ELTE) as they adapted to COVID-19 and shifted their operations online. The analysis highlights the range of challenges that arose during this process, factors that helped teacher educators address these challenges, and positive outcomes for organisations and teacher educators of the enforced transition to online delivery. The implications of the study for online ELTE will also be considered.
